

CONSTITUTION AND
BY-LAWS
OF THE
GRAND ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER OF NORTH CAROLINA

ADOPTED MAY 9, 1906
WITH AMENDMENTS TO MARCH 2016
APPROVED BY JURISPRUDENCE NOVEMBER 1, 2016

FOREWORD

The Grand Royal Arch Chapter of North Carolina revised its Constitution and Bylaws, March 8, 1966. The Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters in North Carolina revised its Constitution, General Regulations and Standing Resolutions, May 8, 1965. The Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of North Carolina revised its Statutes and Regulations, March 23, 1964.

Pursuant to the action of these Grand York Rite Bodies of North Carolina, the basic law of each is printed in loose-leaf form and incorporated in one binder. We feel this to be a further evidence of the unity, which permeates the York Rite of Freemasonry in North Carolina.

The Committees on Jurisprudence have carefully edited all revisions since the last printing in 1972, through the year 1982. A Joint Resolution of the Grand York Rite Bodies transferred annual revisions thereafter to the Office of the Grand Secretary-Recorder in conjunction with and assisted by the Committees on Jurisprudence.

The office of the Grand Secretary-Recorder carefully edited all revisions since the transfer of responsibility of maintaining each Constitution. In 2006 the Constitutions were updated with all revisions through 2006 and distributed to the membership. In 2016 the Constitutions were updated with all revisions through 2016 and were made available to the membership on the North Carolina York Rite Bodies website.

Where the pleadings in a civil suit, to which a Royal Arch Mason is a party, and in which he has the right as well as the opportunity to appear, present the sole issue as to his guilt or innocence of a crime, the judgment or decree therein is competent evidence in a Masonic trial for the same offense.

No votes shall be taken on the charge.

PUNISHMENT

SEC. 26-29. If the verdict be "guilty" on either of the specifications, the Chapter must impose the punishment either by expulsion, or by suspension for a stated time, to be determined by a majority vote, by ballot, or by reprimand as hereinafter stated. The High Priest or presiding officer shall put the question first on expulsion. If a majority present vote for expulsion, then the accused shall stand expelled; but if less than a majority present vote for expulsion, then the question shall be on suspension, then the time shall be determined by beginning with the longest time proposed, and so on down until some time shall be adopted; if less than a majority of those present vote for suspension, then a reprimand shall be administered in open Chapter by the High Priest, or by some Companion designated by him.

The Grand Chapter has the right to restore an expelled Royal Arch Mason to good Masonic standing, but not to membership.

If the Chapter in which the original proceedings were had be not in existence; then he may petition the Grand Chapter, originally, but should accompany his petition with a recommendation from the Chapter in whose jurisdiction he resides.
